ABSTRACT

This research Report was carried out in Nawire Sub County primary schools. The topic was relationship between domestic violence and behavior of children in primary schools in Nawire.

Research question was what type of behavior do children from violent homes show in schools and can poor behavior in schools be blamed on only the family?

Questionnaires, interview schedules and focused group discussions were the instruments. The theoretical frame work was Freudian theory of psychological, physical and sexual referents.

It was found out that there was direct relationship between violent homes and errant behavior of children. There's need for further research

CHAPTER ONE

INTRODUCTION

1.1 Introduction and background

This research was about Relationship between domestic violence and behavior of learners in primary schools in Nawire Sub-County in Tororo District. The time period was 2022. Nawire Sub-Sub-County is mainly inhabited by indigenous people called the Jopadhola who speak the language called Dhupadhola. The total population is estimated at 400,000 people according to Uganda Bureau of Statistics of 2018. But by now it should be much more than that number. They are part of the Jopadhola are ethnic groups falling under the major cluster called the River Lake Nilotes or the Luo. They speak a language of the Luo cluster and are close cousins to Acholi, Langi, Alur, Kumam, and Luo of Kenya. . Unconfirmed historical claim states that the Jopadhola migrated from the Middle East, settled in Egypt for over 400 years before rolling down to Bar-el-Ghazel then along river Nile to Uganda settling between the Great Lakes of East Africa. There are many views but whatever the historical view and background the truth known is that the Jopadhola now live in Tororo- in Eastern Uganda. Their main economic activities are agriculture and pastoralism. Maize, beans, Irish potatoes and bananas are the main food crops while coffee is the cash crop.

However, one important recent feature of Jopadhola life is that they love to educate their children the modern way. Nawire Sub-County where the research was done is not big but it has about 10 primary schools all filled to near capacity. Most of them are government aided primary schools.

However there is one point of interest. The people love education but the children are often noted to be violent and poorly behaved while in schools. This made the researcher to raise a
